FLY DECLARED MOST DANGEROUS INSECT

Health Authorities Declare that it is the Greatest Carrier of Disease.

FOOD SHOULD BE WELL PROTECTED.

For those who would get rid of the house fly, which for the next few months will be on the job early and late, the Department of Health of Chicago is busy dis tributing a poster which contains invaluable pointers for the honscholders anxious to rid themselves of this annoyance.

The that fact files are annoying insects is not the only reason that has prompted the authorities to wage a war of extermination The circular against them. which the department is sending broadcast through the city emphasizes the assertion that flies "are the most dangerous insects known to man," nud that they are carriers of such infectious diseases as tuberculosis, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria and other dreaded ills.

Especially does the dopartment impress upon the honseholuers the fact that flies carry from place to place millions of death-dealing germs, which they deposit wherever they may alight, and that unless the foodstuffs, principalty milk, are well protected from them, the danger of infection will be great.

Following are parts of the circular, which are full of facts and advice:

Hints to the Scerer.

Shall the error column be abolished from base ball? So few fans know how to score a game properly that there is considerable talk of cutting the mistake section out of box scores.

No matter how careful and conscientions a scorer is, he has to exercise splendid judgement or he will be nnfair to either the batter or the fielder.

Beginners make a practice of jotting down an "error" every time a fielder gets his hands on a batted ball. Not only does this rob the bateman of a hit, but it does the fielder a great injustice.

It is true that with centuries of illbreeding, with selfish culture and wrong living, it is but natural that there should be many physical and moral defectives, but the tendency is so strong toward the normal that it does not take long to get back to the right way.

This tendency to the normal is well marked and quite noticeable in all the kingdoms of nature.

Official Standing of Kiss.

Homer describes how the servants of the nobio Odysseus klased his head, shoulders and hands, and he also states with his usual exactness, which class of servants was entitled to do homage in this manner and which class had to be satisfied with a handshake. Thus in Rome it was customary to kiss the head, the hands, the tunics or the feet of prominent men, according to the rank of those who saluted. In the beginning of the imperial era a prominent Roman could not appear in public but that he was almost devoured by his admirers. THIRTEENTH ATTEMPT TO AP-PEAR BEFORE THE PRIME MINISTER FAILS.

WOMEN SLAP CHIEF OF POLICE

Several Thousand Police Guard Parllament Square and Foil the Weman'a Piane-Enormous Crowda Witness Scene.

London, June 30,-Tho thirteenth vain attempt of the militant suffragettes to obtain access to Prmier Asquith by deputation resulted in exciting acenes in Parliament Square and the arrest of more than 100 women. The plan of campaign followed the lines previously employed by the suffragettes. The "Woman's parliament" assembled in Carton Hall and sent a deputation, headed by Mrs. Pankhurst, to endeavor to see the prime minister, who had previously decided not to receive the deputation.

Enormous crowds of onlookers assembled in the vicinity of Parliament hours before the time set for the raid upon the house, around which several thousand police had taken up strategic positions. The first noteworthy incident was the arrest, after a great deal of trouble, of a buxom equestrian suffragette, who tried to penetrate the pelice cordon to take a message to the premier. Next appeared the deputation under command of Mrs. Pankhurst, and it was received by the crowd with wild cheers. Escorted by the police, the deputation arrived at the St. Stephens entrance to parliament, where it was met by Chief Inspector Scantlebury, who handed Mrs. Pankhurst a letter from the premier, regretting his inability to disordered and the pian in my back receive the deputation.

Angrily throwing the letter on the without suffering severely. The paln often extended into my sides Mrs. Pankhurst exclaimed: "I stand on my rights as the king's and became more severe if I stood subject to enter the house of com- for a short time. I had dizzy spells mons," and she endeavored to force and many times was forced to grasp an entrance.

The police tried to induce the women to disperse quietly, and then many days could scarcely gets out began to take the members of the of bed. I can safely say that I edeputation by the arms to lead them away. To the surprise of the spectators, who were massed around the entrance, Mrs. Pankhurst stapped Inspector Jarvis in the face, knocking this cap in the mud. There were cries of "sbame," and several of the spectators told the suffragette leader that she had no provocation to do such a thing.

A moment later, another member of the deputation, Mrs. Saul Solemon, knocked off the inspector's cap a second time, while others made determined attempts to rush the corden of ed States. police. Eventually, the entire deputation was placed under arrest.

Altogether, 112 women were arrested, including Mrs. Pankhurst, Mrs. Solomon, the Hon. Mrs. Haverfield, daughter of Lord Abinger, Miss Margesson, daughter of Lady Margesson, Miss Maud Joschim, niece of the violinist, and many other prominent

State Should Own Them

N considering the Glackin bill, authorizing the state of Illinois to establish by special taxation a tuberculosis sanatorium, the question arises as to whether it should end with the establishment of a sanatorium for tuberculosis only, or whether the proceeds of the special tax should not be also used for the establishment of a sanatorium for the cure of other diseases and for the betterment of tenement districts.

The tenement house laws could work in co-operation and be part of this new law. There could be built, with the proceeds of this tax, model tenements, of which the state should be landlord. These tenements should be designed and built for the health and welfare of the working classes. No better model could be followed than the Krupp dwellings of Germany. These buildings are built in squares, with open stairways, large central court, bathroom, kitchen, parlor and bedrooms-no shutting out from the people of their natural rights-God's light and air. The model dwellings should be under state control and visited at intervals by official inspectors. No overcrowding should be allowed, clean-$22.50 and costs. Oakley was liness and hygiene should be insisted upon, and the tenants of these held over to await the action of dwellings should have free medical treatment from medical officers of the fund, and should, in fact, be under medical supervision.

> I venture to suggest that such tenements could be run by the state on a paying basis, and the benefit of the community would be so farreaching that it is impossible to limit it by any statement.

The effect on the health of the individual is obvious, and the moral awakening would be a revelation, because, as the tenement question now stands, it is quite a common occurrence for ten families to live in a house originally built for one family, and several people of both sexes, boys and girls, men and women, to sleep in one room.

The tenement house to-day breeds physical and moral disease. As W. J. Hurlbut, in his play, "The Writing on the Wall," asserts, "The tenement house landlords are a trust—a combination in restriction of health, of decency, of virtue." The state must fight the trust by becoming the landlord of model tenement dwellings for the people.

The Bills We Like to Receive

of bills is a fine, firm quality of linen, known as "distinctive" paper, manufactured under government inspection at Dalton, Mass. Its delicate yet tough fibers have had a varied history before receiving the government stamp. The flax grew, perhaps, in the moist, fertile fields of Ireland.

It was gathered, bleached, spun and woven largely by woman's skill. It may have formed at one time dainty lingerie; it may have been the garments of babes; it may have been the confirmation suits of children or the graduating gowns of girls.

The paper employed for the printing Loving hands have caressed it, patched it, darned it, and finally consigned it to the rag bag. Its mission, howsomething to steady myself. I also suffered from terrible headaches and ever, was not thereby concluded. By a process of modern alchemy, it is transformed and issued anew, not from looms, but from rolls, to take up another cycle of usefulness. College Work But a Part of Life

By PROF. WOODROW WILSON

Of all the erroneous and harmful ideas that young men and young women have, the worst is the pernicious belief that college is simply the stage which precedes the real beginning of life, and that the real life and the real tasks are still to come. University life is not an introduction to life, but a part of it, and a most important part of it. More and more, as the years go by, in the business as in the professional world, the stress is being laid upon the trained mind, able to grapple with the complicated problems of industrial and urban life. Those whose minds are not trained will be servants, who will not only have to obey some one else, but will have to bear the added indignity of being told how to do the work. And the training of the mind, which will make a man a master and not a servant, is to be had only through hard work, intellectual work, and by a utilization to the full of the great opportunities which a university training spreads out before one. To give that training, to help that mastery of one's mental powers, in which lies the secret of Midas and of Socrates, is the purpose and the aim of a university.

Life's Discords OftenWork for Good

By JOHN K. LeBARON

A small discord will sometimes ruin shut, ma'arn." a large symphony.

A discord is anything that disturbs the tranquil trend of things.

No matter how crude or how savage a people may be if left to themselves they exist with a certain degree of harmony. This is one of the selfish requirements of self-preservation.

It is not necessarily a matter of ethics. At war with other tribes, even at war with nature, the savage, nevertheless, lives in rude harmony with his own people.

War is the great discordant note of civilization. Among enlightened nations 2,000 years of Christian civilization should have made war impossible. As long as wars exist the symphony of civilization is incomplete.

All great souls have been discords, out of harmony with existing ideas. "The carrion in the sun will convert itself to grass," says Emerson. Bearing out the not altor tiler philosophical theory that there is god in verha evanderd have their notion.

IN A STRANGE LAND.

Two belated disciples of Bacchus staggered arm in arm up Wainut atreet about three o'cleck the other morning. The street was dark except for a single ground-glass globe that blazed In front of an apartment house. One of the inebriates, spying this lene light,

"Oh, look at zhe moonsh!" The other seriously contradicted him saying:

"That aln't no moonsh; zasb sun. This started an argument which lasted for several minutes as to whether the globe was the moon or the sun. Finally they decided to leave It to the first passer-by, who happened to be another "happy" gentleman. They stopped him, and pointing to the globe, asked.

"Settle an argument, old pal; ts that the moon or the sun?

The third party stared knowingly at the globe for several minutes before he shook his head and replied:

"Gentlemen, I really couldn't teli you. I'm a stranger in this town."--Philadelphia Record.

The Grassy Stare. In a recent railway accident an old Irishman was severely injured. For some time after the accident he was left unattended to, but at last some symathetic lookers-on picked him up and carried him to the station waltingroom until the arrival of the doctors to officially pronounce on his condition. By and by a surgeon bustled in, looked at his prostrate form and pallld face, and then exclaimed, "That poor fellow is done fer, I'm afraid." Then he knelt down, lifted up an eyeiid, and saw a duil, expressionless orb. "Very sad. He'a as dead as a door-nail. Take the poor old fellow away," exclaimed the medico. No sooner had he spoken, however, than the supposed corpse began to move his lips. The startled doctor listened, and this is what he heard: "Bedad, doctor, that was me glass eye ya was looking at."

Schoolteacher-Do you know the meaning of that letter on your hat? Boy-Yes, sir. Father says It every morning he can't find his collar atud.

The Retort Courteous . The merry party in the flat made such a racket that the occupant of a neighboring apartment sent his servant down with a polite measage asking if it would be possible to make less noisa, since, as the servant announced, "Mr. Smith says he cannot read."

"I grieva for Mr. Smith," replied the host. "Please present my compliments to your master, say that I am sorry he cannot read, and tell him I could when I was four years old!"

A Recommandation. "I am looking for a place," said the stranger, "in which I can bring up my girls to good advantage. What inducementa does this town offer in that

"Well," the old aettler answerad, "It strikea me as bein' a purty good town for your purpose. We'va got a button fact'ry here, and if your girls can't all find jobs in it was git calls from the city nearly every day for girls that people want there to do housawork."

Out of His Line. "Good merning." said Lardi Longsox, entering the atudio of Dauber, the famous portrait painter. "I wish to engage you to paint my portrait." "I shall be delighted, madam," was the answer.

"I want it painted with my new hat on," said Lardi. "Pardon me, madam," came the quiet reply, "but I am not a landscape artist!

Power in Silence. Here is a hint for the women who forget and fret and fuss. Go into the silence at certain times of the day. One need not necessarily retire for formal prayer. "He who is in the path of duty needs no prayer," said a wise oriental. But in the silence you will find the peace and strength of prayer. In withdrawing from the pressure of things and getting la touch with the great sources of power, you will absorb power Edwin Markham, In Fed Book.

English Writer Shows, Some Good Points About This Old-Time Form of Punishment.

Perhaps one of the few really democratis institutions ever created was the pillory. I do not say that It was a humane institution, though it was certainly more humane than our system of silent Imprisonment. But being humane has nothing to do with being democratic. You may have humane and inhumane democracies, just as you msy have humane and inhumane despots.

The point is that the pillory was a resl appeal to the people. If it was eruel, it was because the people wore cruel, or perhaps justly ludiguant. The people threw dead cats (the less humanitarian, I believe threw live cats), but they could throw bouquets and crowns of laurei lf they liked. Sometimes they did. The argument about the old public punishments cuts both ways. The publicity was an additional risk for the government as wall as an additional risk for the prisoner, and this is specially true of the executions for treason. It was no small thing that half a militon men might possibly treat as a martyr a man whom the king was treating as a murderer; that the prince had to concede to every obscure ruffian exactly what that ruffian probably wanted most-fame.- G. K. Chesterton, in London News. . . .

REALLY NO PUZZLE AT ALL

Foudite Editor Arises to Explain Why Woman Descend From Street Cars the .Wrong Way.

"It makes us tired," wrote the editor of the Hickory Ridge Missourian, "when we see some city newspaper wondering why it is that a woman always gets off a street ear the wrong way. There ain't no mystery about it at all. Our wife explained it to us years ago, and she never rode on a street car but once in her life, when she was visiting relations in Kansas City.: A woman gets off a street car backward because she naturally grahs her skirts with her left hand. That's constitutional with a woman. Then she has to grab something with her right hand to hold on to, and that's the ralling at the rear end of the ear, so when she steps off she has to face the wrong way, You can't break women of that habit unless you make them get off on the left side of the street car, and if you did that It's just as likely as not they'd be contrary enough to grab their skirts with their right hands. But there ain't nothing strange about the way they get off now. Blamed if we don't think sometimes that some of the stupidest men he the world is working on the big city papers."-Chicago Tribune.

The principal differense is that, instead of living in New Jersey rather than pay them alimony in New York, we keep them altogether in one house at home. Expensive on account of Easter hats? Not at all. The Arabian women wear vells, which are not expensive. But in the matter of the number of wives, many Mahomedans care very exclusive in that particular, ... For example, while my unele has 25 wivel, my father has never had but one, my mother. My parents are both now nearly 90 years old, but they are as much in love as they were when they were first married, and I am their only son. My uncle, who has 25 wives, has no ehii-

Birth of Music.

By the old Romans the god Mereury was credited with the invention of music. According to Apaliodorus, the belief was as follows: The Nile, after an overflow, left on the shore a dead tortoise. It's flesh was finally dried up by the hot sun, so that nothlng remained in the shell but the cartilisges, which, being braced and contracted by the heat, became sonorous. Mercury, happening to be walking that way, and striking his foot against the shell, was so pleased with the sound produced that the idea of a lyre presented itself to his imagination He immediately constructed the instrument in the form of a tortoise, and strung it with the sinews of dead animsis. And so music began.-New York American.

TRIBUTE TO "MOTHER VOLGA"

Haunting Melody of Grrow and Unrest Heard in Prison and Palsoe in Russia.

There is an air so popular in Russia that it is even more familiar than word was handed down from the early their national anthem to the people of that groat mysterious empire, says a writer in the Travel Magazine. I have heard it in sil part of the czar's dominions, from the Baltic sea to Berpies and men more than 60 years old ing strait and from Archangel to the Caspian; in the glittering palaees of Petersburg and in foul prison dens of

> It is a simple melody in the minor koy, suggestive, like most Slav music, of sorrow and unrest, and it is eailed "Matushka," or "Mother Volga," as for some cryptic reason every Russian, be he noble or nihliist, is taught from childhood to regard this great river in the light of a maternal relative. Yet the river is full of sad associstions, for convicts formerly traveled a portion of the journey to Si-

I can never forget the haunting sweetness of "Mstushka Volga" as I heard it sung on a prison harge one quiet summer evening hy a party of fettered politicals hanished to the great lone land of exile. For "Mother Volga" was their last link with home and the loved ones they might never meet again.

Fortunately the condemned are now sent into Asia by the Trans-Siherian railroad and the unhappy exile is spared at least one bitter partingthat from his well beloved "Mother Volga."

Those Frail Boats. - ,

"In an account of a wreck on the Long Island coast that I read the other day," observed the retired yachtsman, "I was pained to motice: In one paper that the crew left the schooner in a 'frail boat.' the said craft being properly described in the Press as the ship's long boat. I know that is the conventional phrase to describe a vessel's small boat, but as I resd it I wondered if the 'frall boat'. writer ever had seen one of those ponderous fabrics of oak called the ship's long boat? Or if he ever had tried to haul a lincot yawl off a beach after it had been left high and dry by the tide? Such a job on a hot July day probably would cure him forever describing even such a boat as frail."

Millionaire Husband Had Been Paying Her Only $25,000 Annually-"intoxication" Might Have Been Excitement, Says Court.

New York, June 26.—After a trial which lasted nearly three weeks Katherine Clemmons Gould obtained a legal separation from her husband, Howard Gould, third son of the late Jay Gould. With the exception of alimony, her victory was complete, hut in this phase of the case the court decided that $36,000 a year wss aufficient, although in her suit Mrs. Gould asked for $250,000. She has been reeelving $25,000 a year from Mr. Gould.

It was in the vindication of charges of intexication and her alleged relations with Dustin Farnum, the actor, that Mrs. Gould scored most strongly, for notwithstanding the long array of witnesses for Mr. Gould who gave such of the secret agent. When Judge testimony as to make Mrs. Gould appear at times as defendant rather ions he said: than plaintiff, the court beid that the alleged "intoxication" might have been due to excitement. As to Dustin Farnum, it was held that her asso. READY FOR AERO FLIGHTS ciation with him came after Mr. and Mrs. Gould separated, , and that the husband apparently made no objection. Attorney Gets $17,000 and Expenses.

Delandey Nicoll, for Mr. Gould. asked for a sixty day stay of judgment, and Clarence J. Shearn, for the plaintiff, was on his feet to object. He asked for an immediate judgment. Justice Dowling compromised by making the stay 30 days. Mr. Shearn then asked for an extra allowance for counsel foes, and the court gave him $2,000. This, together with $10,000 allowed recently, and the original allowance of $5,000, will hring his fees to $17,000, with an additional aum of $3,900 for Friends of Mrs. Gould crowded about her as soon as the decision was announced, and she was kept busy recelving congratulations. As the decision was read, she kept her head rast down and seemed plainly disappointed by the allowance. As soon as the case was closed, however, she shook hands warmly with Mr. Shearn and thanked him for his conduct of her case. Then she heemed upon her friends, and even smiled upon the downcast trio of lawyers who had fought for her husband's interests...

Howard Gould hurried from the room, and declined to discuss the Mrs. Gould drove away in an auton

Me. Shearn, jubilant at the decision, mahit:

Dowling's decision is sweeping and complete vindication of Mrs. Gould. That has been the object of all this bitter litigation. Mrs. Could have compromised for a fortime at any time, but would never consider for a moment anything but the opportunity of clearing her name in an open, public trial."

He added that either party in the suit could still bring action for absolute divorce, hut that Mrs. Gould could not hase such an action on the charges involved in the suit just decided. Mrs. Gould's dowry right in Howard Gould's real property amounts to $3,000,000, he said, and was unaffected by the separation. His client, he continued, was going to Virginia for a long rest.

Mrs. Gould issued the following statement:

"I am the happiest woman living totht, hecause I have been so completely vindicated hefore the entire world of all these horrible charges. Not one little psng shot through my heart at the smailness sof the sllowance-only supreme joy and the deepest gratitude. I send a thousand loving thanks to all who have helped me."

Cail Practically Wipes Out All Depos-Its of Government Funds in Ns-. . tional Banks Subject to Check.

Washington, June 30.-A call on national depository banks for a return to the treasury of government funds aggregating approximately $25,000,000 was made hy Secretary of the Treasury MaeVeigh. Of this amount $9,000,000 have been called for July 15 and $16,000,000 for August 15.

Balances in all active depositorics are uniformly reduced to the lowest amount which the dsily needs of tho government will permit.

This call will practically wipe out all of the deposits of government funds in national hanks subject to check hy the treasury of the United States except about $37,000,000, which is held in active account and necessary to meet checks of government disbursing officers and $1,000,000 which will be allowed to remain in $1,000 lots in such of the one thousand smaller national banks as desire to retain their designation as national bank depositories.

The working halance is more than $43,000,000, which will be increased by the call to approximately $68,000, 000. The low state of the government working balance made its strengthening a necessity, and thus augmented, the treasury department will have ample funds for at least some months.

It is expected, however, that hefore the coming December an additional issue of Panama bonds or the further issue of treasury receipts of indebtedness will be found necessary.

It was the express in the hands of a cool shot that saved me in the encounter related here.

We had been out nearly a year and were returning to elvilization, such as it is on the East African coast, with a good stock of lvory. My partner, Jappie de Villiers, a well-known Boer hunter, had fever and was expected to dle at any moment. He had been carried 300 miles from the interlor ln a hammock, If de Villiers had not been ill i would not he alive

We were pitching eamp at the Kagera river on one of these inexplicable barren patches that are scattered like freckies over the face of the tropical forests. The sun was setting and the sky blazed like the mouth of a foundry furnace. The moke of the newly made camp fires rose slowly in the damp air and hung lazily about the tree tops; clouds of files and mosquitoes followed every living thing and the lizards looked inquisitively down from their perches in the great vines that reached out like the tentacles of a mighty octopus holding everything in its grasp. The river with its waxy water flowers and gliding croeodiles was on one side of ms. the trenical jungle, mysterious and fascinating in all its vivid and extravagant luxury, was on the other.

I hung our rifles on the limbs of the trees which supported my sick comrade's hammock. The porters were collecting drywood-for the night fires as I watched a monster crocodile in the water making a futile effort to swallow a friend nearly as hig as itcelf. A party of natives from a nearby village was skinning a beast we had anot for food. In another group my "boys" were opening the bundles of camping necessities. A loud grunt, followed by a Somall's cry, came from the jungle side of the eamp, and the next instant the screeching Somali, followed by a buge rhinoceros. burst through the undergrowth. The Somali ran for a tree. He tripped over an ammunition box, the rhino passed him in its blind fury and charged down on the clump of porters, seattering them like chaff hefore the wind. One was crushed down. Another who had stumbled rose to run, the maddened beast charged and thrust Its horn through his back, battered him against a tree, and then hurled hlm in the air.

I took my knife and cut a foothold on the earcass, and then rocked it so that it would drift to the shore. The natives told me that a well-directed bullet had hit the crocodile in the head.

The Enormous Cost of Hunting.

The cost of hunting big game in Africa is enormous. One must spend a fortune before firing the first shot. The various European colonies "protect" their game by charging 50 pounds sterling ($250) a year for a license which allows the hunter to kill two each of the pachydermata and from two to ten of the various species of antelopes. This does not protect a native brought in news of a fresh the game, but it fills the local treas-

Now about tigers, which have been treated so freely as African game in recent American articles. It ail depends on one's astlonality whether or not there are tigers in Africa. The leopard is called a tijger (tiger) by the Boers, and so is the cheetah, just as a panther is called a tiger in some parts of the United States. The known as a tiger (tigris regalls) and which is the animal referred to in a number of recent stores, does not make its habitat in Africa, as the writers seem to think. So when a traveler speaks of lions, leopards and tigers seizing passengers from trains he is generally writing at long range with a misinformed imagination instead of facts. He makes a double mistake if he speaks of "tigers and leopards" in reforring to African fauna, as in Africa they mean tho same animal. I have never heard an Englishman or a Boer when speaking English eall a leopard a tiger.

The most dangerous hunting occurs when one sttempts to capture his animal alive. Many animals, harmless and timid under ordinary circumstances, become demons when captured. The mildest-looking antelope will put up a flerce fight when once kick a man to pieces, raining its blows with lightning-like rapidity. I do not know one African animai that can bo called cowardly.

One has only to look at the formidable horns of all the African antelope to see that they are built to fight with, strong as iron and as sharp as a lance. I have seen an antelope attack a leopard, and even a iion, when its young is threatened. The gemsbok, or oryx, with its two sword-like borns, has dispatched many a lion. It is not uncommon to find a gemsbok and a lion dead beside cach other, the mnte the at a h dred I tox atl g edors which mixed with the sickening emuvia of decay.

Insects resembling leaves crawled over everything, twigs apparently walking up the trees and leaves apparently splitting and flying in all directions. Beetles with blg, hypnotic eyes and bronze backs huzzed noisily around our heads, and heautiful birds vylng with one another in brilliance of plumage sailed through the air, filling the dismai forest with their passion-laden songs. The constantly dripping sap spattered from leaf to leaf, sosking into the noxious earth. it was a scene, dread and fascinating, clamoring of life inviting one to death.

hotbed of disease. Beaters went out in all directions searching for the goriila. At last some deep, wide scratches were found on a cluster of vines. On close examination the unmistakable hair of the gorilla was found on a broken twig. After some hours we found the tree where the gorilla lived. We could tell it by the greasy appearance of the bark, made so hy the repested rubbing of the gorilla's hody. We could tell by the fresh marks, with san still wet, that the animal had recently ascended the tree. The scratches were short and deep, showing that over its first fright; the ostrich will it had lifted itself up and not sild down, which would have made a long, shallow scratch.

For four days we camped in this

We spread a strong net around the tree in a circle sloping upward en the outer side. Around the top of the net there were drawn ropes from four dlrections held by half a dozen natives hidden in the bush. These were to bring the top of the net together and thus bag our game.

After walting some hours the leaves above rustled and then opened, as a six-foot male gorllla descended unsuspectingly and entered the trap. I alguated, the four ropes were puiled at once, and we had our animal-for

At last the mighty arms of the go rllla broke a hole through the net and he tore the rest from him as though It were a rotten rag. Most of tho netives fled in dismsy. The professor dropped his camera and tried to eseape; in a moment the gorilla grasped him in its terrible unds.

I seized my rifle and fired in the air to frighten the animal. In my position I could not shoot at him without hitting my friend. For a moment the gorilla stood still, holding the now unconscious man as though he were a baby, the hrute's lips drawn back from his glistening teeth. I thrust another cartridge in my rifle. As I dld so there was a buzz in the air, and an arrow, shot by a native, pierced the gorilla's side. A roar burst from his red throat and he dropped his victim. Like a fissh, before I could shoot, a native sprang from the leaves and, half-throwing, half-thrusting, drove an assagai into the gorilia's heart. With a groan the brute fell dead.

Examining the professor, I found that his right arm was broken and that some of his ribs were crushed into his lnngs. We gave up the effort to get a live gorilla and, placing the injured man in a hammock, carried him back toward the East coast. He dled on the road. Out on the veld beside a native village a lonely iltilo slab marked "Carl Bloch" sticks up above the grass. It is the professor's grave. Hunting is not all exciting adventure and laughing victory. It has its tears, like other things. (Copyright, 1909, by Benj. B. Hampton.)

FRESH AIR FOR THE SICK.

Nothing is more common than fresh air. it is all pervading and provided by nature. It is free to all who will take it. We all need it and all have to have it. The sick need it more than the well, and yet there are those who think the windows in the sickroom must be kept closed. As a metter. of fact, the one best thing we can do for the sick is to see to it that they have an abundance of fresh air all the time.

rhino spoor. I at once set out in uries. Added to this is the price for search of the game. We were not ten minutes on the hunt when I smelled the peculiar odor of the rhino, average expedition is made up of from which sometimes is very strong. I was down the wind—that is, the wind was blowing toward me from the rblno-so I was sure of getting a pretty good shot. A few minutes later I saw a long horn sticking through the high grass. It was motlonless. The animal was waiting for us to pass. I took a chance aim and fired, hoping to hit a vital spot My calculation was bad and the rhino scampered off at a gallop. I stood there cursing my lack when a grunt hehind me nearly scared me out of my wits. I took no chances, but turned and ran. I hadn't gone 20 yards when I bumped on mething in the grass and down i went. I graphed my rifle and mado for the not conducted from a financial point nearest tree a few yards away. When

As soon as a llon or leopard is killed the skin must be removed, cleaned, and treated with a taxidermic preparation of alum. Then to protect it from heeties, it must be soaked in turpentine and put in charge of a native runner, who takes it to the nearest post for preservation. Often when a skin arrives at its destination the numerous insects that infest the country have eaten it full of holes and it is absolutely worthless. Speaking of carnivora and the other fauna of Africa, let me say for the benefit of the American writers, iecturers and artists who wish to pretend to a knowledge of African anlmal life that there are no yaks, alligators, kangaroors, turkeys, bears or tigers in Africa outside of a circus or a zoological garden. There are two species of rhigoceros, the bicornis or prehensile-lipped, and the simus or square-mouthed rhino. The latter, aithough almost as black as its relative, is called the white rhinoceros on account of a blue slaty tinge in its skin. To be exact, there is no such thing as a white rhinoceros. Both have two horns. The Asiatic rhlnoceros has but one. Crocidites and alilgators differ greatly in appearsnee, and the latter do not live in Af-

A Blood Curdling Gorika Hunt.

I was commissioned by a German naturalist society to capture one of each species of African quadrumana. A German professor accompanied me on my expedition, which set forth in a direct line west from Dar es Salaam. We succeeded in getting some of each species, with the exception of the gothe country. It was in the rainy season, and the veld, which under ordlnary circumstances afforded excellent trnveling, became a awamp.
